01 Summary

Fighting and airstrikes. Fighting in October was heaviest in southern Chinland, especially on the Kyindwe front in Kanpetlet Township and around Mindat, where the junta sent reinforcements. Near Masa Tui village on 5 October, the Chin People's Army (CPA) and allied forces killed about 30 junta troops and captured more than 20. The junta relied heavily on air power, with at least 15 airstrikes and more than 58 bombs on places believed to be military positions in Kanpetlet, Mindat and Hakha Townships. A strike on a prisoner-of-war camp of the Chinland Defense Force-Hakha (CDF-Hakha) killed 10 prisoners of war and injured 6.

Civilian harm. In 22 airstrikes with 145 bombs on civilian areas of Mindat, Kanpetlet and Paletwa Townships, including one drone attack, the junta killed 11 civilians, including a six-month-old baby, and injured 7. The deadliest attack, in the Daai area of Paletwa Township on 18 and 19 October, killed 9 civilians. At least 27 homes, 3 religious buildings, 2 schools, 2 government buildings and 7 roadside stalls were damaged. The Assistance Association for Political Prisoners (AAPP) reported that 64 civilians were killed in Chinland between January and 22 October 2026, 59 of them by airstrikes. On the Hakha-Falam road, a mother, her two children and a tricycle driver were shot dead; local people suspect junta troops, but this is not confirmed.

Governance and politics. The Chinland Council (CC) approved the duties and powers of military courts until a Defence Law is enacted, and the Chinland Government declared 19 official holidays and commemorative days. Local authorities banned illegal moneylending and the transport of drugs and alcohol, and three education institutions held graduations or announced new courses. In Tedim Township, the junta is using development budgets to win villages over to junta-appointed administrators. The CC and the Interim Chin National Consultative Council (ICNCC) met again in Aizawl, formed a steering committee and continued merging into a Chin National Council (CNC). The Steering Council for the Emergence of a Federal Democratic Union (SCEF), which includes the Chin National Front (CNF), urged Malaysia not to treat Min Aung Hlaing as a legitimate head of state. The CNF answered the junta's renewed invitation to peace talks by calling for inclusive dialogue rather than the Nationwide Ceasefire Agreement (NCA) process. The junta extended martial law in five Chinland townships.

Border. Tighter Indian security, including more than 10 new Indian Army camps along the Tiau River near Zokhawthar, made cross-border travel and trade harder. Ten vehicles meant for illegal export to Myanmar were seized in Lawngtlai District. In Champhai District, 4 Myanmar nationals were arrested with 3.858 kg of heroin and 10 kg of methamphetamine tablets were seized, and India's Enforcement Directorate (ED) raided 38 locations of a drug and hawala network linking Myanmar with northeast India.

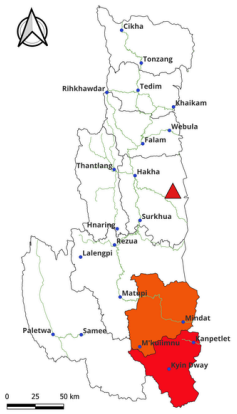

Humanitarian situation. Flash floods killed a 75-year-old man in Falam Township, where a 16-year-old boy is also missing. In Chinlung, flooding suspended services at Victoria General Hospital and washed away two bridges, and in Thantlang Township five road sections and five bridges were damaged. Seasonal flu is spreading in Thangnuai village, Tedim Township, and about 500 displaced people from Kanpetlet Township face skin disease, flu and diarrhoea; both urgently need medicine and health care. The CNF said it is not yet safe for Thantlang residents to return because the town is full of landmines.

Accountability. The Speaker of the Chinland Parliament asked Malaysia to suspend the deportation of detained Myanmar nationals. In Denmark, a Chin woman filed the first criminal complaint against Min Aung Hlaing and other junta leaders under a new international crimes law, and Chin lawyer Daw Zar Li Aye received an International Bar Association (IBA) award for outstanding contribution to human rights.

05 Humanitarian Crises, Displacement and Socio-economic Impacts

HUMANITARIAN CRISES AND DISPLACEMENT

1 October:

- Continuous rain caused the Tiau River on the India-Myanmar border to rise suddenly. Parts of Victoria General Hospital in Chinlung town, where the CNF headquarters is located, were flooded and hospital services were temporarily suspended. The Lava stream iron bridge in the town and the Tiau River suspension bridge linking to the India-Myanmar border were washed away, and humanitarian assistance is needed for reconstruction.
- Continuous rain on the Khawlhring mountain range, on the border of Thantlang and Falam Townships, caused a mountain stream to rise suddenly. U Ngun Zwan, a 75-year-old man from Hrianghnang village, Falam Township, was swept away and died while crossing the stream on his way back from his hillside farm.
- Heavy rain and sudden flooding caught four young men who had gone night fishing on the Fanai stream near Leilet village, Falam Township. While they were sheltering in a tree, the water rose and the tree fell, throwing them into the water. Than Thawm Lian, a 16-year-old boy, was swept away and is missing.

2 October: The TPC said that heavy rain in its area of Thantlang Township damaged five road sections, Vuichip-Thlualam, Thlualam-Hriangkhan, Hriangkhan-Thau, Sialam-Bungtlang and Tlangrua-Vambai, and five bridges, between Tlangrua-Vambai, Zangtlang-Thekte, Bungkhua-Thingsai, Ralpel-Hngarchip and Dawn-Lungkolh. As this makes travel difficult and could disrupt the transport of food, medicine and health services, it called for support for repairs.

7 October: Town elders and displaced people formed a 16-member leading committee in Hakha town for the return of Thantlang residents, who have been displaced for more than five years by the armed conflict and the junta's arson attacks. As a first phase, the committee will start clearing bushes and landmines and repairing drinking water and electricity lines.

23 October: Responding to the junta's efforts to force displaced people to return to Thantlang town and rebuild it, CNF Vice Chairman-2 Dr. Sui Khar said that Thantlang town is full of minefields, that the political and military situation means it is not yet time for resettlement, and that until there is real stability he does not want people to return.

24 October: Some local people said that seasonal flu is spreading through almost the whole of Thangnuai village, Tedim Township, which has about 90 households. As there is no village clinic or health worker, health care and medicine are urgently needed.

27 October: Some local people working on displacement issues said that about 500 Chin civilians displaced from Kanpetlet Township, sheltering in IDP camps and villages in the forests and hills on the border of Kanpetlet Township and Sidoktaya Township, Magway Region, are suffering from skin disease, seasonal flu and diarrhoea because of shortages of drinking water and poor hygiene, and urgently need medicine and other humanitarian assistance.

LIVELIHOODS AND SOCIO-ECONOMIC SITUATION

30 October: Local people said that tree beans (zawngtah), a seasonal cash crop grown mainly in Tedim Township, are selling this year for up to MMK 500 per pod, mainly for export to Mizoram through Rihkhawdar town and to Manipur through Kalay-Tamu. Last year, when transport was difficult, a pod sold for only about MMK 50, so demand and prices have risen significantly.

While respecting Malaysia's sovereignty and laws, the letter asked Malaysia to put the lives and safety of Myanmar nationals first, in line with the principle of non-refoulement, under which people who may face persecution should not be sent back.

8 October: At the IBA Annual Conference in Copenhagen, Denmark, held from 4 to 9 October, Daw Zar Li Aye, a Chin woman lawyer and Supreme Court advocate from Myanmar, received the 2026 IBA Award for Outstanding Contribution by a Legal Practitioner to Human Rights for her courageous work defending human rights and justice.

12 October: Following the junta's air attack on the Presbyterian church in Mindat town, the Burma Research Institute (BRI) urged the United States Government to recognize, as soon as possible, the junta's systematic targeting of religious buildings as war crimes and crimes against humanity.

22 October: Some local people said that junta troops stationed between Suangzang and Aalvoi villages, at Kennedy Peak on the Kalay-Tedim road, Tedim Township, have forcibly dug up and resold potatoes grown by villagers, killed and eaten villagers' buffaloes, arrested passing civilians and forced them to carry military supplies and the stolen potatoes, and destroyed some empty homes in the two villages.

Local people said the junta may be responsible, as it has placed checkpoints and ambush positions on that road section since it retook Falam town.
